Trading Risk

Trading foreign exchange, CFDs, and other financial instruments involves substantial risk. Market conditions can change quickly, results will vary, and you may lose some or all of the capital deposited in your brokerage account.

Leverage

Leverage increases exposure and can magnify both gains and losses. The leverage available to you is determined by your broker, account type, and jurisdiction. Higher leverage may result in rapid and significant losses.

Past Performance

Past performance does not guarantee or reliably indicate future results. No representation is made that Vaultline's software will generate income, produce a profit, or achieve results similar to those previously shown.

Technology and AI

STRATA™ relies on automated software, artificial intelligence, market data, connectivity, and third-party broker infrastructure. Latency, slippage, data errors, model degradation, system interruptions, or execution differences may affect trading results.

Your Broker and Capital

Your trading capital remains in a brokerage account held in your name. Vaultline does not receive, hold, pool, withdraw, or transfer client funds. Your broker is responsible for account custody, pricing, execution, withdrawals, and applicable client protections.

Technology, Not Financial Advice

Vaultline provides access to proprietary trading technology and related resources. Vaultline is not a broker, investment adviser, commodity trading adviser, fund manager, or financial institution and does not manage accounts or provide personalized investment recommendations.

Your Responsibility

You are responsible for deciding whether Vaultline's technology is appropriate for your financial circumstances, objectives, and risk tolerance. You should only trade capital you can afford to lose and consult qualified financial, legal, and tax professionals when necessary.
